Management Assessment for Personal Planning & Development

Core Competency Addressed in this Class:

Developing Self
- Describe your personal styles, behaviors and preferences
- Use effective interpersonal skills, showing respect for others, being responsive to their needs and abilities
- Invest time and energy in self-development and professional growth

---

Class Duration: One Day

Objective:

The purpose of this class is to allow participants to assess their personal learning, communication, interaction, and role management styles; to help build on their managerial strengths and consider ways to address their limitations.

Desired Learning Outcomes:

By the end of this class participants should be able to:
1. Describe themselves based on self-assessments, in terms of their communication and interpersonal styles; learning styles; and role efficacy.
2. Describe how their self-perceived strengths and preferred styles contribute to effective managerial performance.
3. Explain how an awareness of the styles and strengths of those they supervise can help increase the productivity and morale of the work unit.
4. Develop a personal professional development plan which recognizes personal styles and strengths, and which proposes training and education activities to address areas of need.

Instructor:

Robbi Dreifuerst is director of the Wisconsin Certified Public Manager Program in the Division of Continuing Studies at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She holds a Masters Degree in Adult and Continuing Education from UW-Madison.