A welcome note from your instructor:
Welcome aboard! Drawing the figure from life is a time-honored practice in studio training. We'll do that here, but with the addition of costumes to stoke our imaginations and give our drawings character. We'll keep the poses somewhat short so we're able to develop drawings efficiently and try a lot of different ideas. I'll demo and lecture briefly on important concepts to help strengthen your drawings as well as work with you individually to get the best results.
The more elaborate the costumes, the more fun we'll have. We can put a call out for costumes. Bring your ideas, costumes and props. We can plan this out together once we see what is available.

Tips for success:
While we want to sharpen our skills and get a lot of practice in, let's remember to have fun. Consider this a break from straight, academic figure training and an opportunity to be more expressive and involve your imagination in the work.
