DISC: Improving Communication and Enhancing Relationships

Instructor: Chariti Gent
Fee: $300 both days
Approved for CCE by ICF: 1.5 Core Competencies and 10.5 Resource Development

Ready to do more for the people you work with or supervise—and for yourself? DISC is the leading personal assessment tool to improve your ability to guide productivity, teamwork, and communication. Learn how to “people read” customers, colleagues, and clients. You also receive your own DISC assessment.

Day one explores the four personality styles and how each communicates. Discover techniques to bridge the communication gap so individuals can more effectively communicate with people of differing styles. On day two, apply the model to specific situations and create your personal action plan. Real-life examples help you explore and test how to handle challenging situations. Chariti gave an excellent presentation! I liked the interactive dialogue with the group. —2015 DISC participant

Goal Setting to Goal Getting

Instructor: Mary Barnes Johnson
Fee: $150
Approved for CCE by ICF: 4.5 Core Competencies and 1.5 Resource Development

A recent study at Stanford University determined that 80% of the population does not set goals. Of the 20% that do, only 8% accomplish their goals. What percentage do your clients fall into?

Help your clients understand and create clear and attainable goals, a plan of action, and a path to self-motivation through the Moving from Goal-Setting to Goal Getting in Three Steps model. Through individual and small group exercises, hands-on learning, and in-depth discussion, you build understanding of the goal-setting process in a way you’ve never done before, and learn how to motivate your clients to be among the small percentage of people who actually achieve their goals.
